Privacy Policy

This Privacy Policy is to help you understand what information we collect about you, the limited times we may share it with others, and what measures we take to protect your privacy.

Federal law mandates that we must make you, our client, aware of a law protecting the privacy of individuals. Our firm respects and maintains the confidentiality of our clients. In compliance with the law, we are informing you that we collect nonpublic, personal information about you from the information we receive from you on tax preparation worksheets and other documents we use in preparing your return.

We do not disclose any nonpublic, personal information about our clients or former clients to anyone, except as necessary for electronic filing your tax return. We are no longer able to provide any tax return copies or information to any third parties without a specific signed consent form from you. An email or verbal request is no longer adequate. Please contact us for a consent form.

Access to nonpublic, personal information is restricted to those professionals necessary for providing accounting and tax service to our clients. We maintain physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards that comply with federal standards to guard your nonpublic personal information.

Keeping your information confidential and secure is of utmost importance to us. Your confidence in us is very important and we want you to know that your personal information is safe; all copies and information are sent only through encrypted files. If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact our office.
